Hubandall.

My forever dear Friend:
How good you have been to me—how considerate and tender.
And your blessed addition is enthroned in my reverence and love
as one of the rarest and dearest I have ever known. Heaven bless her.

Sister Sarah Whitney is dear and true - I feel drawn greatly to her as one of Heaven's evangels.

It is good to have been with you one and
all. I like to think we shall never again lose sight of each other, no matter how close the crowd, in this or any of world.

And "the old lady"
upstairs, I invest somewhat of love in her also - because of the genius and patient, tender strokes she's had, H.C. though she has seemed like aace in a while. But you have "got yourself the victory" over her sure enough and "for 140000"

As to the inscription of our dear old poet, let me whisper you very closely, that your

(Ms. 227)

Isabel was from the first, set to have you for the sculptor and him for the inscription thereon and I don't believe you'd better leave it off without direct conference between the Ladies de Whitney and de Somerset.

As I gang my gait Westward my heart will turn toward that high hearted Mervyn that home with loyalty and love. Always thy
